Publication Agreement

Agreement: We are pleased to have the privilege of publishing your Article in a forthcoming issue of Artificial Life. By your signature below, you hereby grant to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) all your right, title, and interest including copyright in and to the Article.

Rights Reserved by Author: You hereby retain and reserve for yourself a non-exclusive license: 1.) to distribute the Article for use in your own teaching and research activities, 2.) to publish the Article, or permit it to be published, as a part of any book you may write, or in any anthology of which you are an editor, in which the Article is included or which expands or elaborates on the Article, unless the anthology is drawn primarily from Artificial Life, 3.) self-archive the Article under the guidelines found at https://direct.mit.edu/journals/pages/authors#author posting. Some of the foregoing guidelines will not apply if the article was written by an MIT faculty member. If you are an MIT faculty author, please check this box _____. As a condition of reserving the preceding rights, you agree that MIT and Artificial Life will be given first publication credit, and proper copyright notice will be displayed on the work (both on the work as a whole and, where applicable, on the Article as well) whenever such publication occurs. Rights of MIT Press:

This agreement means that MIT Press will have, in all media, the following exclusive rights among others:

1.) to license abstracts, quotations, extracts, reprints, and/or translations of the work for publication; 2.) to license reprints of the Article to third persons for educational photocopying; 3.) to license others to create abstracts of the Article 4.) to license secondary publishers to reproduce the Article in print, microform, or any computer readable form including electronic on-line databases. This also includes licensing the Article for document delivery.

Warranties: You warrant that neither the Article in its entirety nor any substantial portion of the article has been published before in any form, that you have made no license or other transfer to anyone with respect to your copyright in it, that you are its sole author (s), and generally that you have the right to make the grants you make to us. Any exceptions are to be noted below. You also warrant that the Article does not libel anyone, invade anyone's privacy, infringe anyone's copyright, or otherwise violate any statutory or common law right of anyone. You agree to indemnify us against any claim or action alleging facts which, if true, constitute a breach of any of the foregoing warranties.

Publication Agreement Supplementary Material for Artificial Life Articles

Supplementary Material Agreement: If you are submitting additional text, video, or other material (Supplementary Material) now or in the future, that you consider relevant to your article, the following three clauses will govern the posting of that material.

You hereby give to MIT Press a nonexclusive license to publish the Supplementary Material by hosting it on the Press's servers, accessible through a link from the Press's web page where your article is listed, and from any other MIT Press website or related website. You understand that the Supplementary Material has not been reviewed or approved by the editors of Artificial Life, is not considered part of your Article or of Artificial Life, and is not included in any licensing arrangements that the Press may have with respect to Artificial Life.

You are free to include your personal contact information and any copyright or other notice that you wish to include in the Supplementary Material, provided it is not in the nature of an advertisement or solicitation of employment or business. MIT Press reserves the right to take down the Supplementary Material at any time if in its sole judgment it believes that the Supplementary Material is not suitable for posting on its website.

You warrant that you are the sole author of the Supplementary Material, or if not, that you have a complete and unencumbered right to grant MIT Press the license stated above. You also warrant that the Supplementary Material does not libel anyone, invade anyone's copyright or otherwise violate any statutory or common law right of anyone. You agree to indemnify us against any claim or action alleging facts which, if true, constitute a breach of any of the foregoing warranties.
