Nonexclusive Publication Agreement

Agreement: We look forward to publishing your Article in a forthcoming issue of Quantitative Science Studies. You will retain copyright to your Article since this agreement does not transfer copyright. For the protection of your work, we require that an author whose work is to appear in Quantitative Science Studies give its publisher, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Press (MIT Press), a nonexclusive license, including the exclusive right of first publication in English, prior to publication of the Article in Quantitative Science Studies.

Open Access Publication of your Article: Your Article will be published under the Creative Commons CC BY 4.0 license in Quantitative Science Studies: <https://direct.mit.edu/qss>. For more information regarding this license, please see <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>

Preprints: Publication of preprints on servers such as arXiv, SocArXiv, and bioRxiv and in institutional repositories is acceptable and encouraged.

Rights Reserved by Author: By retaining the copyright to your Article, you are reserving for yourself the right to publish the Article or permit it to be published by other publishers subject to certain anthology and periodical rights given to MIT Press in the following paragraph. Since, with the exception of first publication rights of the final, copy edited version, the licenses we require are nonexclusive, they do not prevent you, the author, from giving or selling similar licenses such as abstracting, indexing, translation, reprinting, educational photocopying, electronic reproduction/distribution, and document delivery rights to other publishers.

Licenses to MIT Press: You hereby grant to the MIT Press a nonexclusive license to publish the Article in all media and formats throughout the world and as part of such license you give us the exclusive right of first publication in English for the final, copy edited version. You acknowledge and agree that publication of your Article may include publication on a standalone basis – e.g. in reprints and in downloads from the Press’s website.

MIT Press is responsible for the dissemination of Quantitative Science Studies and its contents in various ways. For example, but without limitation, we have standing agreements with educational photocopying, abstract/indexing, and discovery services which reach many people and institutions. We also have agreements that encompass document delivery and inclusion of Quantitative Science Studies in electronic databases and discovery platforms. You hereby authorize us to license the Article in any manner in which we license the contents of any issue of Quantitative Science Studies generally, with the understanding that all uses are allowed via the terms of distribution of your Article under a CC BY license.

Warranties: You warrant that the Article has not been previously published anywhere in English, that you are the sole author(s) of the Article, and that you have a complete and unencumbered right to make the grants you make to us, including the use in the Article of all photographic material submitted by you with your text. You also warrant that the Article does not libel anyone, violate any rights of privacy, or publicity, or invade anyone's copyright or otherwise violate any statutory or common law right to anyone. You agree to hold harmless and indemnify MIT Press against any claim, demand, suit, action, proceeding, recovery or expense of any nature whatsoever arising from any claim of infringement of copyrights or proprietary rights based upon or arising out of any matter or thing contained in the Article.

3rd Party Copyrighted Content: If your Article contains third party copyrighted material (images, illustrations, etc.) that you do not own copyright to, please check this box ☐ to confirm that you have obtained and submitted a copy of the required releases for republication under a CC BY license. You must include proper copyright notice as required by the original copyright holder. Unless you have provided a credit line that attributes the content to another copyright holder, the terms of this agreement will govern that content as well.

In Conclusion: This is the entire agreement between us, and it may be modified only in writing. It will bind and benefit our respective successors in interest, including assignees, and our licensees, provided that you may not assign this Agreement without our prior written consent. It will terminate if we do not publish your Article within two years of the date of your signature(s).

I (we) concur in this letter of agreement:

MIT Press hereby consents to the terms of the foregoing agreement.
